

Spotless cleansing without health impairment – this is how carpet cleaning is done today

If it comes to warmth and comfort no floor covering comes even close to a carpeted floor. For the long-lasting pleasure in a carpet, it should be vacuumed regularly and, from time to time, be cleaned wet. Modern consumers expect from a wet cleaning system that it spotlessly removes stains and unsightly soilings. At the same time, it is vital that product ingredients do not impair people's health. The newly developed TexxClean Cleaning system perfectly meets these requirements.

The cleaners are made from natural raw materials that are completely biodegradable. TexxClean does not leave any residues in the carpet that could do harm to humans or animals. As opposed to conventional carpet cleaners, the soft, fluffy feel of the carpet surface remains intact after the cleaning procedure - an advantage that is appreciated not only by those who love to loll around on the floor.

The new cleaning system consists of three components that are offered separately or together in a box holding the Stain remover spray, the Carpet pretreatment agent and the Carpet cleaner. Additionally, the box contains a hand brush and three cloths to take up dissolved dirt.

TexxClean is a versatile cleaning system that cannot be used for the ecological cleaning of carpets alone. Upholstery, car seats or other textiles can also be cleaned with TexxClean as well as floor coverings and materials tolerant against moisture.

Because of their sensitivity to moisture, carpets made of natural fibres should only be cleaned with machinery particularly suited for this kind of flooring materials.

Carpet cleaning made easy

First, rough dirt is hoovered up and stubborn stains are pretreated with the Stain remover spray (1). It removes even most persistent stains like the ones left by coffee or fruit. The stains are dissolved by carefully treating them, from the fringe to the center, with the brush that is included in the TexxClean box (2). After 3 to 5 minutes of reaction time, the dissolved dirt can be dabbed off with one of the cloths included in the box or with another clean cloth to hand (3).

A particularly great nuisance are worn-out spots or heavily loaded entry areas. This problem is tackled with the help of the Carpet pretreatment agent. It is sprayed on from a 50 cm distance (4).

10 minutes later, the complete carpet area can be cleaned with a spray extraction cleaner. The tank of the machine is filled with a mixture of water and Carpet cleaner (5). Spraying and absorbing is done in one run of the machine while it is drawn backwards over the carpet (6). As opposed to carpet cleaning by shampoo or steam cleaners, the spray extraction cleaner soaks the carpet for just a short period of time.

For use on upholstery or car seats, the machine can be equipped with a special upholstery cleaning nozzle.
